

Charter

Nouvelle Planète is an international foundation for development cooperation that supports selected concrete projects that assist less privileged populations in the Global South during a limited amount of time and their environment. It supports active partners (such as farmer groups, women's associations, ethnic minorities) through direct relations between the North and the South.

While accomplishing their mission and respecting the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the Convention of the Rights of the Child, all persons acting under the aegis of Nouvelle Planète commit themselves to:

Accept, share and stand up for the ideals, the values and the goals of Nouvelle Planète

Help one other, share, give advice. Make available all means and knowledge without any obligations for the partner neither to take it nor to give it back.

Respect the partner. Start off with the goal the partner wants to reach and his means, his situation and his know-how.

Adapt to the local conditions, ways of life and customs.

Identify the positive qualities of the partners and back them with optimism.

Mutually enrich each other through exchange, devoid of any notion of power.

Be open minded and ready to listen, all for a better understanding.

Be tolerant and open to criticism. Avoid conflicts.
Welcome the unknown and the innovation with benevolence.

Act respectfully towards the environment. Consider humanity and nature as a whole.

Aim at efficient, useful and quality actions. Give priority to volunteer work.

Act without discriminating on ethnical, socioeconomic, religious or political grounds.
